Long Island University

BROOKLYN CAMPUS

LIU Brooklyn's Media Arts Department offers five unique degree programs integrating multiple concentrations that foster dynamic collaboration and transformative communication. Our faculty includes recognized working professionals, distinguished scholars and renowned media artists. Our programs offer personalized attention, small classes and state-of-the-art facilities.

"Integrating at the core of creativity."

Careers

Employers - from non-profit organizations to Fortune 500 companies - are becoming increasingly reliant upon employees who are media "savvy" and possess a high level of technological aptitude. Majoring in Media Arts will provide the training and knowledge required to gain the extra edge needed to compete and succeed in today's challenging job market.

New York City is the media capital of the world and offers thousands of opportunities for media artists, producers, audio engineers, directors, photographers, graphic designers and writers to make their mark in television news, fashion, internet communications, advertising, radio, gaming, the movie industry and publishing. The Media Arts graduate who remains flexible and up-to-date in the latest trends and techniques will go far in a field that offers tremendous growth potential.

state-of-the-art facilities

The Media Arts Department is situated in our newly renovated Media Center and provides access to state-of-the-art facilities including: multiplatform computer graphics labs, digital audio suites, a television studio, digital video editing suites, digital photography labs, darkrooms, writing labs and a comprehensive media library. In addition, the newly opened Kumble Theater brings exciting media, artistic and cultural performances to enrich the campus experience for students.
